2. Pop-Up book techniques workshop

Movable books have a long and engaging history that begins before the advent of printed books. Pop-ups, pull tabs, rotating wheels, and lift-the-flaps are just some of the kinds of movable devices that have been used in books to surprise, entertain, and educate both children and adults. And who doesn't love them! It is exciting to open a flat page and to have an illustration spring to life. For more than a thousand years, philosophers, scientists, artists, and designers have added movement to text to increase the reader's understanding, pleasure, and involvement with the words, concepts, and emotions. Just like their predecessors, today's movable books today are still hand-made creations.

Ana with her big experience will take children in the pop-up book's world. Every participant will make his/her own 2 pop-up spread.

PARTICIPANTS: 20 (age of 18 and more, also possible to do a workshop for children)

MATERIALS: Colored papers, scissors, paper glue, pencils, markers.

DURATION: 1 hour 30 minutes
